Wine List

Grape vines of Chile and Argentina were planted by missionaries from Spain with the conquistadores in the mid-sixteenth century.

Vineyards were planted in 1551 and the first records of wine being produced in Chile are from 1555.

As the country's population expanded, the wine production moved from the church to European plantation owners.

By the early 1800's New World wines imported to the Old World began to affect the Spanish wineries.
